HOCUT[®] 767-AT

BIOSTATIC, LOW FOAMING, SYNTHETIC MACHINING AND GRINDING FLUID

Improvements in the modern day machine shops continue to change the process chemical requirements of the metalworking industry. Increased machining speeds, harder metals, and exotic tooling have required that the coolant industry enhance the performance of our products. New fluids must have high levels of rust protection, improved cooling, and low tendencies to foam. Hocut 767-AT contains the latest synthetic technology to give you an economical coolant for use in a wide variety of machining and grinding applications. Hocut 767-AT provides superior rust protection to newly machined surfaces. Additionally, grinding wheels remain open and free-cutting, while a high cleaning action takes away fines to minimize loading. In-use solutions are clean and will not foam.

FEATURES

- * Economical
- * Excellent rust/corrosion protection
- * Rapid heat removal
- * Biostatic chemistry
- * Clean running, transparent solutions
- * Long sump life/non-foaming

BENEFITS

- * Low in-use cost
- * In-process protection of machinery and parts
- * Maintains dimensional control; reduces heat checks and burnishing
- * Maximizes sump life
- * Maximizes worker acceptance
- * Reduces maintenance costs
